I wanted a job that would accommodate the schedule of nursing school but still provide working experience in health care. No Worries was the answer! They gave me a flexible schedule that I could manage while still focusing on my school needs. At times, I would request time off to study for exams and the schedulers were so understanding. When I requested additional work during school breaks, they were able to place me with clients. No Worries has clients that range from personal care to complex care who require nurse supervised, delegated tasks such as: tube feeding, tracheostomy care, deep suctioning, and insulin administration. I gained valuable experience and received competitive wages. After getting my RN license and starting work in other jobs, they continued to check in with me about my availability. I knew I did not want to end my working relationship with them as it is a truly enjoyable working environment. I was excited when they contacted me to discuss filling an open nursing position. It has been such a wonderful experience to work with this amazing group of people.
